JOHN SHAW BILLINGS BY FIBLDING H. GARRISON, M. D. John Shaw B1lll1ngs, perhaps the most versatile American physician of his time, achieved excellence and gained distinction in no less than six different fields--in military and public hygiene, in hospital construction and sanitary engineering, in vital and medical statistics, in medical bibliography and history, in the advancement of medical education and the condition of medicine in the United States, and as a civil administrator of unique abilities. Shortly after receiving his medical degree from the Medical College of Ohio (1860), Dr. Billings prepared to enter upon surgical practice in Cincinnati, where his prospects were excellent, but the outbreak of the Civil War turned his mind to the larger service of his country, and, in September, 1861, he passed his examination before the examining board for admission to the Medical Corps of the United States Army and was duly commissioned First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon on April 16, 1862. As an army surgeon his services were continuous and included some twenty-one months work in hospital and a full year of roughing it in the field. He long afterwards described this experience as his postgraduate course in surgery, with its service in camps and hospitals, with battlefields for the great clinics--a long, weary course. During the Civil War his reputation for courage and ability was of the best, and the end of the great struggle found him one of the medical...
