He must have had in mind the recent tragedies in the Republican party when he made the remark, which it was only possible for a Democrat to make, that a little of the inspiring fluid taken in moderation did not alarm him. There was also one remark in the instructive and illuminating address which we have heard from the Bishop which never would have been made by an American in public life in these times of fervid agitation and legislation, when he frankly admitted he enjoyed riding in a private car and upon a pass. We owe a debt to our newspapers for the enterprise with which they present every morning to their readers a photograph of the political, religious, literary and scientific activities among English-speaking peoples. It does more than diplomacy or conventions or conferences to promote peace and bring us together. We have been for at least two decades as familiar with the daily walk, characteristics, life and achievements of the statesmen, preachers and scientists of Great Britain as our own. This practice has within the last decade entered English journalism, and now our kin across the sea know more about us than ever before.
